SPRING BROOK SOFT BALL TEAM ANNIHILATES MARILLA

The Spring Brook Soft Ball team defeated Mailla at Marilla 10 to 2, Thursday. (Look, folks, these are the kind of notes I get from our correspondents when I miss an item. "Sir Editor: My nose might be in the refrigerator half of the time, but I'm on the job; ketch on? In other words, Goodness love you if you forget this item." You can go out now folks while I have a heart to heart talk with said reporter. "Look, pal, I really didn't forget that item, which was Spring-Brook defeated Elma Nurseries 11 to 4. You see what happened is this--One of the boys from the nursery kicked in two bits NOT to publish the results. So what could I do? However, we tried to shake them down for another hunk of ransom and got cold-shouldered. So SPRING BROOK LICKED ELMA NURSERIES BY THE TERRIFIC SCORE OF 11 to 4. There, now we're in Dutch both places. G'wan back in the refrigerator.) P.S. I won't be around for the mail until this blows over.

C R A S H I N G T H E P A R T Y

This, looks from here, like the year our founding fathers visualized as being a quadrennial affair. Our choice between two men to lead the nation for the next four yrs.

Even tho the drafters of the Constitution were uncanny in their vision and thoroughness, many Americans wonder if perhaps they didn't miss a trick someplace. They wonder if Alex Hamilton and Tom Jefferson ever dreamed in their wildest moments a system of party politics as faulty as the one we have today. If they had, provision no doubt would have been made to deal with it.

The Republican convention bore out the opinion that many Americans have about our political system. They have a feeling that both parties have failed their people. They do not believe anything any politician may say. This is unfortunate. Despite the overwhelming corruption and incompetency produced by our party system, there are many good party men who are capable, competent men who place their integrity and fair play above partisan swindling. But we say "Birds of a Feather Flock Together" and as a result the innocent are made to suffer with the guilty.

The crashing of the hallowed gates of Republican partisanship and party workers by a rank outsider you can bet has left both parties jittery to desperation. If a man can force his nomination for the presidency of the U. S. by a party openly hostile to him. What is to stop this process all the way down the line? The consumption of aspirin and Bromo-Seltzer among the ward healers and party bosses is getting tremendous. The 'good old days' when you had to start out by shoving door bells and whooping it up for soap box spell-binders in order to get a start in politics seems to have changed.

The American Nation is in Revolution! The capitalist and politician have had their chances at running the nation and both have failed miserably.

America now looks to successful business men to take over the biggest business of all, the business of running our government. In this frame of mind any good substantial business man will be a push-over with the voters. If they are successful, party politics are in for some rough weather.

Who is so blase that he will say the coming election is Republican versus Democrats.

Tell that to a Republican and a lump comes to his throat. Willkie was a Democrat until just a short time ago.

Tell that to a Democrat and he winces. Roosevelt has set up his own party "The New Deal". Consequently we find the Republicans bowing and scraping to Wendell Willkie, a stranger in their house. Willkie will be THE republican party, at least until November. On the other side, what Democrat is foolish enough to deny that Franklin D. Roosevelt is THE democratic party? Thus we see Mr Willkie the former democrat facing Mr Roosevelt, the 'former' democrat. In other words its Willkie versus Roosevelt.

The issues set up by the platform of the Republican party no doubt will be answered in kind by the Democrats. Thus the platforms will nullify each other. All that will be left are Willkie and Roosevelt. Two men, both having a winning personality and silver tongue.

The voter will decide which man is the most sincere and best qualified to do the job we want done.

There are only a few things American voters are interested in:

1st: America wants to stay out of the war.

2nd: America is willing to help the Allies IF it does not bring war to America.

3rd: America wants a chance to work and prosper.

4th: America wants economic and physical security.

NOTHING ELSE MATTERS to Mr & Mrs Average America.

So What?

So Mr & Mrs A America will listen to both men but when Mr & Mrs A America pull the levers they will say "I think this guy is on the level and can do the job we want done." Bing.

Which lever will that be?

1st of all let's consider Mr Roosevelt. America elected him on his promises to do certain things.

He promised a War on the Depression.

He promised jobs and security.

He promised economy in government.

He promised the working man a fair shake.

He promised (1937-38) that we would not become involved in any European War.

We elected him on these and other promises and pledges. So that he would not have any alibi for failure, we voted him a co-operative congress predominantly of his own political party. After 8 years Mr and Mrs A America will take a look around. This is what he will find:

Despite the many good things Mr Roosevelt has accomplished, he still hasn't solved the unemployment problem. We still do not have economy in government. We still have unbalanced budgets. We are getting so deep in deficits that Congress has had to increase the debt limit in order to finance the re-armament program. Our sterilizing of gold is proving a boomerang. By blessing competitive labor organizations we now have labor pitted against labor.

In addition Mr Roosevelt has plenty of political background some of which is good and some of which is bad.

His failures and political skeletons will be the target of his opposition and don't forget the Third term issue and the dangerous issues of the foreign policy will come in for lots of abuse. These are all compelling arguments which cannot be successfully refuted.

Now lets put Willkie under the glass. Boy, this is heart-breaking to his opposition. Good grief there isn't anything much to shoot at. Never having participated (at least openly) in politics, Mr Willkie has no political skeletons to drag out. That's maddening to any adversary.

The worst that can be said about Willkie is that he was chucked out of high school once for painting the front steps with shoe polish. (he who is among you, who never was chucked out of school or sent to the cloak-room cast the first stone)

On the credit side of Mr Willkie is brilliant business acumen and successful direction of big business. He is a competent organizer proven by his ability to put together in 6 weeks a political machine that Blitzkrieged the Republican organization that took years to build.

To sum up, in the consideration of these two men we have one who was brought up in the best of Tory manners and who has been a political target for many years with some successes and some failures, and who has added to his targets that of War hysteria and third term issues.

The other was reared in less Tory-like manner, with no political background and consequently has never been weakened in the public eye by an opposition party. With no known failures but outstanding successes galore in halo around him.

On the radio, on the screen and on the debating platform here are two gladiators with equality in personality and debating ability. THIS is going to be one swell campaign and I wouldn't miss it for the world.

It is possible that Mr Roosevelt may make a dramatic 11th hour declination of the nomination. If he does, he no doubt will offer his sponsorship to some one he has picked, personally. If so, the arguments will be little altered. The Willkie criticism will be leveled at the New Deal and all its cohorts and that would include any chosen one. On the other hand Willkie has a beautiful argument to answer criticism of Republican administrations. He can say, he is taking the republican party under his wing and away from its fumbling fathers. Therefore what the party had done in the past has nothing to do with HIS republican party. That's devastating.

THERE IS DANGER HERE!

The administration bill for conscription of all men between the ages of 18 and 65 with a proviso that those between the ages of 18 and 45 will be used for combat service has a dangerous clause in it.

It provides that all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 with or without dependants shall be eligible to draft for active combat service either at home OR ABROAD.

That statement is a damning indication that the critics of the administration might be correct in their claim that Roosevelt is leading us to war.

Why "OR ABROAD". Anybody with a son, brother, father or husband and who is a loyal 100% American doesn't want that "OR ABROAD" and they should start now to flood the capitol with letters, telegrams and telephone calls to take out "OR ABROAD" in the conscription bill.

Every American is willing and eager to defend America BUT darn few want to fight on a foreign battle field.
